

HELLO! And welcome to the first newsletter of the Adventist Employment Database. At this stage, I am hoping it becomes a semi-regular thing, with the aim of producing 3 or 4 each year. [A big thank-you to our Computer programmers for making this possible!]

New Recruitment Promotions Officer – Leighton Cantrill

If you hadn't heard, I took over the reigns from Peter Wrangmore in January this year. Peter was successful in establishing the Employment database and building awareness throughout the South Pacific Division of a relatively new concept. For me, having a degree in Human Resources, with a strong recruitment background in Sydney and London, has helped me slip into this busy role. I am the central point of contact for both Church employers and potential employees – so if you have any questions, please don't hesitate to call me.

The Year So Far

While I have been busy learning lots about Adventist Employers, the Adventist Employment Database has been steadily growing. Each new profile added to the Database is an opportunity for Adventist Employers to see another Adventist who is a potential employee. Right through from Production Managers to Marketers, Physiotherapists to Nurses, Administration Assistants to Food Scientists, Engineers, Information Technologists, Accountants and many more, there is a consistent need for Adventist Employers to use this database. We have been referring candidates to most Adventist Employers all over the South Pacific Division!!

Targeted Areas

The recruitment needs of an organisation such as the Seventh-day Adventist Church are many and varied. However, there are recurring themes throughout the many conversations I've had with employers. There is often a strong need for talented employees with experience and skills in Administration and Secretarial, Communication and/or Marketing, Nurses, Accountants, and many roles in FMCG (Fast Moving Consumer Goods), among others.

If you know of any Adventists who have expertise in these areas, please get them to access the database – we might be able to provide them with a great career move.

Keep Your Details Current

When was the last time you logged into your profile?? It would be ideal if every profile was checked regularly. Even small changes to your profile could affect how often it's brought up in searches matching you to an available position.

Perhaps..

...your address and phone number have changed.

...you got married and changed your name.

...you changed degrees and/ or employers.

LOGIN today at <www.adventist.org.au/employment> to enable, disable, update, or refocus your details, or to upload a fresh CV.

Making It Easier To Find YOU!

We are in the process of making the searching process more efficient to make it easier to find you. This may require some changes in categories and fields. If this affects you, we will be in touch – thanks in advance for your patience!!

Adventist Employment Scholarships

The Seventh-day Adventist Church targets talented undergraduate students to kick-start their career in their chosen field, and a likely offer of employment upon graduation. It may not be too late for 2005, if you know of anyone studying Electrical Engineering or Radiography – please get them to contact me.

Adventist Boards and Committees

One way you can contribute to the Seventh-day Adventist Church is to serve on a Board or Committee of our Employers, e.g. Adventist Media Centre, South Pacific Division, Pacific Adventist University. For more information, check out the website at <www.adventist.org.au/employment>.

It's great to provide a viable career path to talented Adventists and a way to access Adventist Employers. Until next time, blessings, as you go about your daily life.
